

SAM CRITTON
CBR, New York
State Licensed
Salesperson

Sam has been brokering home sales in the Capital Region since 2006 having developed a strong reputation for strong communication and contract negotiation skills. With over 10 years experience focused solely on the residential real estate market representing buyers and sellers, Sam knows the market pricing, understands the importance of timing and responsiveness how to position a home for sale.

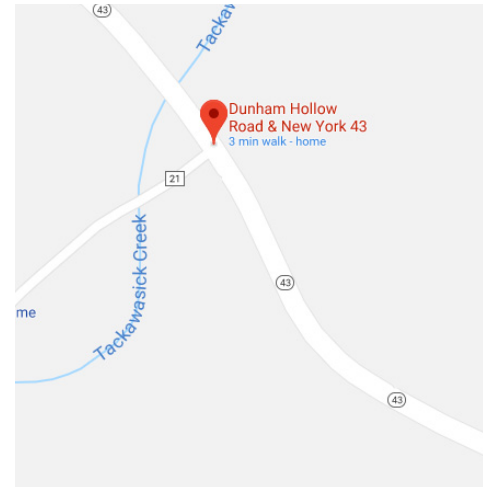

To be effective in today's real estate market, a broker must fully understand both the buyer's financial position and the objectives of sellers to create a win-win transaction. Sam not only excels in doing this, but also goes far beyond, including helping buyers who are relocating to the Capital Region learn their way around and make important connections in the region.
